

TRANSDERMALS

Cannabis infused lotions, balms and oils are absorbed through the skin for localized relief of chronic pain without unwanted cerebral effects.

> TRANSDERMALS

These products provide a unique method of consumption which does not require you to inhale or ingest cannabis to feel its effects. That's because the cannabinoids are absorbed through the skin for localized relief.

TRANSDERMALS

In the case of transdermal patches the properties enter the bloodstream and may produce intoxicating effects with a high enough THC content.

TOPICALS

Topical on the other hand can't breach the bloodstream making them non-intoxicating while still allowing you to gain the therapeutic effect of marijuana without any of the cerebral effects that come from using other methods of administration.

These products come in a variety of isolated cannabinoids and split ratios such as 1:1 CBD:THC and are found in patches, lotions, salves and sprays.
